About Three2Six

The Three2Six program is run by a Marist school, Sacred Heart College, in Johannesburg, South Africa. It provides an education bridging program for children who have been denied access to local public schools. Most of the children are from Central Africa and live in very difficult conditions, their families struggling for survival.

Three2Six provides educational support, a nutritious meal each day and most important of all, hope for a brighter future. 200 students and 8 teachers who are themselves refugees use the school's facilities each day from 3pm to 6pm and Three2Six works with the children and their families to build skills and education foundations and then to help transition the students into local schools.

How you can help

For $50 per student we can provide a two week program with all the stuff that there is no time to offer during the term, when our focus is on basic literacy and numeracy to help the kids catch up.

This year we'll be offering lots of reading, ipads, sports, crafts, dance, drama, nutrition, cooking and great excursions to the zoo, science museum or theatre for each class.

Our thanks

To show our thanks for your support you'll receive a thank you card from your student and a photo of them at Three2Six.
We'll also provide a receipt (please note that unfortunately we don't have tax deductibility status in Australia).
If you are ever visiting South Africa we'd love you to pop in and visit the program in person!
